

Investor Update 21 December 2020

As we enjoy the final month of what has been an extraordinary year, we hope you are looking forward to a slightly different festive season and you and your close ones are staying safe.

The coronavirus pandemic has caused significant volatility in global equity markets and we continue to see larger daily falls and gains than we would normally expect. With this in mind, it is really important that you think twice before taking any action over your pensions and investments.

The FTSE 100 index fell by 0.3% on Friday 18 December 2020 in a largely directionless session, lacking any real driver to prompt substantial market movement. Given the scale of the upwards move since mid-November, it is not surprising that investors are looking to wind back positions before the end of the year.

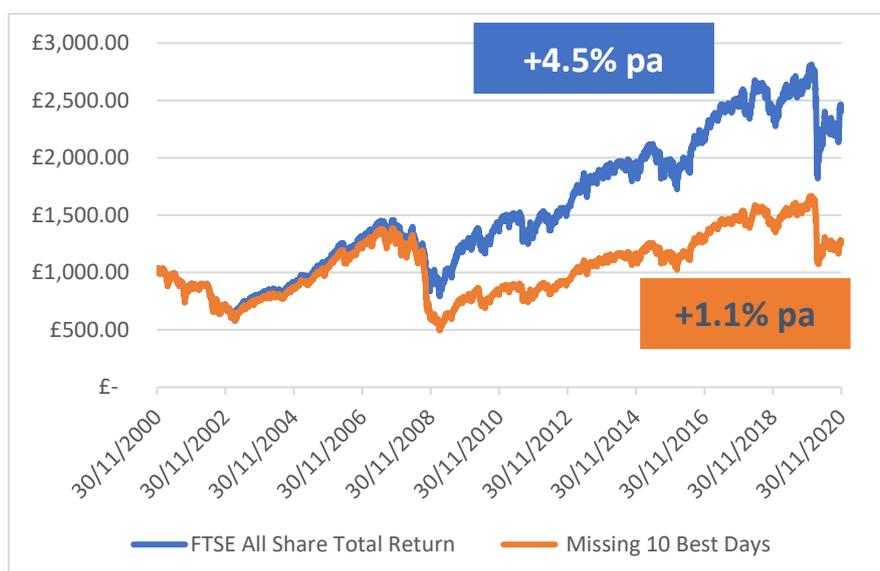

Over the final few days of the year, global equity markets are going to be led by US stimulus talks and Brexit discussions.

In the United States, the major equity markets slipped from record highs in volatile trading as lawmakers struggled to bridge differences on additional coronavirus stimulus measures.

The Dow Jones 30 fell by 0.4%, the S&P 500 lost 0.4% and the Nasdaq was 0.1% lower. All three touched new intraday highs earlier in the day after closing at records in the previous session.

Whatever you are invested in, we'd like to remind you about the following key principles.

1. Stay invested – as you have seen global equity markets fall and the value of your own investments fall as well, it is natural that some of you will be thinking whether you should sell your investments and move to cash or some other “safe haven”. Our strong message to you is stay invested, focus on the investment objective that you set with your Financial Adviser at outset and trust the process. History shows that as night follows day, global equity market recoveries follow global equity market falls and it is damaging to miss out on the recovery days. The following chart shows the performance of the FTSE All Share over the last 20 years, between 30 November 2000 and 30 November 2020, and the impact if you missed the 10 best days. The cost of missing these 10 best days would have been over 3% a year (Source: Omnis Investments).

2. Understand your attitude to risk – we know that you will have discussed your Attitude to Risk and your capacity for loss comprehensively with your Financial Adviser. We are delighted that this process appears to have really worked during this extremely short-term volatile period.

If you are a Cautious or Balanced investor, you have been protected from the extreme falls of global equity markets. In fact, if you look at the average of all Cautious funds in the market (using the IA sector – Mixed Investment 20% to 60% Shares), a typical Cautious investment will be up by between 3% and 4% in the last 12 months, compared to the FTSE 100 which has fallen by more than 10% (Source: FE Analytics as at close on 18 December 2020).

For Balanced (using the IA sector – Mixed Investment 40% to 85% Shares), a typical Balanced investment will be up by over 6% over the last 12 months (Source: FE Analytics as at close on 18 December 2020).

3. Diversify your investments – if you are invested in Openwork recommended investments in line with your Attitude to Risk like the Openwork Graphene Model Portfolios, Openwork Portfolio of Funds and Prudential PruFunds, your investment is diversified which means it invests in a wide range of different asset classes.

Different types of investment (asset classes) and regions of the world all perform differently. Diversifying your investment by spreading it across many different asset classes and regions of the world means that, when certain segments aren't performing as well, others in your portfolio are likely to be doing better and so will help protect the value of your overall investment.

4. Buying low – when you invest, you are always trying to buy low and sell high. For many, now may be a good time to consider increasing your investment. While trying to time a market bottom is difficult, history tells us that you do not have to wait long, if you invest slightly before the bottom, before your investment is back to its original value. As the chart below shows, investing 5% before the market bottom has, on average, added just 3 days to an investor's recovery period.

In such unprecedented times, it is important to know that your hard-earned pension savings and other investments are being looked after. The Openwork Investment Committee is monitoring your investment closely. While none of us can stop short-term market falls, we do fully expect global equity markets to recover. We cannot predict timescales but if you do not need your money now, we believe you will be rewarded for staying invested.
